Municipal Reform Updates

Given the ongoing restructuring process for the new entity 40, the budget planning process is going to look different and start earlier this year. Recently the Town asked for input from residents on what they think the 2023 budget priorities for Sackville should be with a short online survey. 162 people participated in the survey and we are excited to share the results with the transition facilitator. The top five priorities were affordable housing, streets, climate change/flooding, active transportation and healthcare.

A special meeting for public presentations on the budget was also held on Tuesday May 31, 2022 in Council Chambers. Seven different groups presented to Council at that meeting and three others made written submissions.

Finally, the Elected Officials Advisory Committee has reached a consensus decision on the name for Entity 40. The new community will be known as Tantramar. The name has been submitted to the provincial government and will become official once regulations are adopted over the summer. Please note, that resident's addresses will continue to be Sackville.

A full description of the history related to the Tantramar name can be found on the Town of Sackville's website.

To keep up to date on any future developments concerning municipal reform here in Sackville, please visit the Town of Sackville's website.

National Indigenous Peoples' Day Celebrations

June 21, National Indigenous People's Day, is a day for all Canadians to recognize and celebrate the unique heritage, diverse cultures and outstanding contributions of First Nations, Inuit and Métis peoples. The Canadian Constitution recognizes these three groups as Aboriginal or Indigenous people, with each having their own distinct heritage, language, cultural practices and spiritual beliefs.

Here in Sackville, we respectfully acknowledge that the Town of Sackville, and the experiences within it, are taking place on the unceded traditional lands of the Mi'gmaq People; specifically, Sackville falls within the traditional territory of Fort Folly First Nation.

For generations, many Indigenous peoples and communities have come together to celebrate their culture and heritage on or near June 21st, due to the significance of the summer solstice as the longest day of the year.

The Town of Sackville is excited to celebrate National Indigenous People's Day in partnership with Fort Folly First Nation and its Chief Rebecca Knockwood. Activities to honor this coming together of nations will be held at Bill Johnstone Memorial Park on June 21, 2022 from 5:00 - 7:00 pm. Come on out, bring the family, and enjoy traditional drumming, dancing, L'nu Tacos, craft tables, activities and more!

Old Fashioned Friday Night Cruise

On Friday, June 24, 2022, Main Street Sackville will come to life with classic cars, oldies rock 'n roll and a whole lot of nostalgia. The Tantramar Marsh Hawks Lacrosse Association will be offering a fundraising barbeque and there will be plenty of activities for your kids and grand kids.

Joining these classic cars, will be a glimpse into the future. Several electric vehicles will be on display for you to check out and ask questions. You can also expect to see a bicycle loan program, or take an electric bicycle for a test ride. Barnyard Bicycles will be on hand to give your two-wheelers a tune-up as well!

The Sackville Art Fair Draws Big Crowds and Talented Artists

The very first Sackville Art Fair was held on the weekend of May 7th and 8th. By all accounts it was a huge success. As one can imagine, a lot of work and dedication is at the core of such a successful event. The competent team of Matt Pryde, Angela Hastie, and Deanna Cadman did a superb job of organizing this event. This would not have been possible without the sponsorship of Sackville Rotary Club, and the leadership of the manager of Tourism and Business Development for the Town of Sackville, Ron Kelly Spurles.

On Saturday, May 7th morning, Hon. Mayor Shawn Mesheau addressed the artists and the public as he officially opened the fair. The artists were delighted that Mayor Mesheau returned on Sunday afternoon and spent time chatting with each of them individually. They took full advantage of photo ops with the Mayor of Sackville.

The fifteen participating artists greatly appreciated the opportunity of displaying and selling their work. Even though the focus was on paintings only, all fifteen artists had created paintings in their own unique style. There was immense variety in artistic styles, a huge range of sizes and affordable prices. Because of this the visitors had a great experience. They enjoyed looking at different types of paintings, which ranged from realistic paintings, portraits, abstract art, to landscape paintings. There was something for everyone. No wonder I saw many people walking away with smiles on their faces as they carried their cherished works of art. To add to this happy atmosphere, people were fascinated to see one of the artists, Rene Ross, painting live at the Art Fair.

The visitors came from nearby and faraway places. The farthest I believe was Vancouver. I was very pleasantly surprised to meet one of my former students and his mother after more than four decades. They happened to be visiting from Vancouver.

All fifteen artists were delighted with their experience. Practically everyone sold something. But more importantly, they loved the chance of interacting with the public, sharing their talent, talking about their artistic practise, and explaining the story/inspiration behind their artwork.

The artists are eager to come back next year. Moreover, many artists who missed out this year are interested in participating next year. The fact is that art not only adds to the cultural and social life of a town, but it also adds to the prosperity of the town. Art is like the soul within the body that gives it the life. I am confident that with each passing year, the Sackville Art Fair will grow and become a hugely popular event that will benefit our community immensely.
